The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

Arrangement of the Specification

As provided in 37 CFR 1.77(b), the specification of a utility application should include the following sections in order. Each of the lettered items should appear in upper case, without underlining or bold type, as a section heading. If no text follows the section heading, the phrase "Not Applicable" should follow the section heading:

(a) TITLE OF THE INVENTION.
(b) CROSS-REFERENCE TO RELATED APPLICATIONS.
(c) STATEMENT REGARDING FEDERALLY SPONSORED RESEARCH OR DEVELOPMENT.
(d) INCORPORATION-BY-REFERENCE OF MATERIAL SUBMITTED ON A COMPACT DISC (See 37 CFR 1.52(e)(5) and MPEP 608.05. Computer program listings (37 CFR 1.96(c)), "Sequence Listings" (37 CFR 1.821(c)), and tables having more than 50 pages of text are permitted to be submitted on compact discs.) or
REFERENCE TO A "MICROFICHE APPENDIX" (See MPEP § 608.05(a). "Microfiche Appendices" were accepted by the Office until March 1, 2001.)
(e) BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION.
(1) Field of the Invention.
(2) Description of Related Art including information disclosed under 37 CFR 1.97 and 1.98.
(f) BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION.
(g) BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE SEVERAL VIEWS OF THE DRAWING(S).
(h) DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION.
(i) CLAIM OR CLAIMS (commencing on a separate sheet).
(j) ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE (commencing on a separate sheet).
(k) SEQUENCE LISTING (See MPEP § 2424 and 37 CFR 1.821-1.825. A "Sequence Listing" is required on paper if the application discloses a nucleotide or amino acid sequence as defined in 37 CFR 1.821(a) and if the required "Sequence Listing" is not submitted as an electronic document on compact disc).

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Examiner cannot find any specific example or passage in the specification that sets forth the numeric value of the critical temperature.

Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The critical temperature is not disclosed in the specification.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cain for reasons of record (0521205).

Applicant argues that Cain uses an added or external source of seeds to prepare his chocolate. This argument has been considered but is not persuasive since the claims, as written, do not require that the seeds be from a specific source. Cain utilizes the critical beta crystals and thus must have prepared them using the critical temperature requirements.

Claims 1, 3, 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Soeters for reasons of record (4,283,436).

Applicant argues that Soeters does not use cooled molten seed material but rather uses stabilized crystals from the original pre-conched mass. This argument has been considered but is not persuasive. Examiners cannot envision an unobvious or unexpected difference between the crystals of Soeters and the molten material of the claims. In the prior rejection, applicant urged that the seed material was not native to the original chocolate. Here chocolate from the batch is used to culture the seed material. The fact that the seeds may or may not be molten would be a feature inherent to the temperature of the chocolate. The specific temperature is not a part of the claims.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Soeters for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that Soeters does not use cooled molten seed material but rather uses stabilized crystals from the original pre-conched mass. This argument has been considered but is not persuasive. Examiners cannot envision an unobvious or unexpected difference between the crystals of Soeters and the molten material of the claims. In the prior rejection, applicant urged that the seed material was not native to the original chocolate. Here chocolate from the batch is used to culture the seed material. The fact that the seeds may or may not be molten would be a feature inherent to the temperature of the chocolate. The specific temperature is not a part of the claims.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Willcocks for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that Willcocks does not use a cooled molten seed material but rather uses a cocoa butter seed agent containing the most stable fat crystals. No difference is seen between the crystals of Willcocks and those of the claims. Both applicant and Willcocks are using the same ingredients and examiner cannot distinguish the claims from the reference in this case. If applicant intends to indicate that the seeds are used at a specific temperature, then the claims should be amended to indicate that specific temperature.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Willcocks for reason of record.

Applicant argues that Willcocks does not use a cooled molten seed material but rather uses a cocoa butter seed agent containing the most stable fat crystals. No difference is seen between the crystals of Willcocks and those of the claims. Both applicant and Willcocks are using the same ingredients and examiner cannot distinguish the claims from the reference in this case. If applicant intends to indicate that the seeds are used at a specific temperature, then the claims should be amended to indicate that specific temperature.
